

Susquehanna University: 2 Faculty Openings

East Asian History. The History Department of Susquehanna University seeks candidates for a full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professorship in East Asian history, national and period specialty open, to begin August 2009. The selected individual will teach upper-division courses in her/his area of specialty and survey courses in East Asian history; generous support for research available. PhD and previous teaching experience preferred, ABD considered; interest in furthering an existing interdisciplinary Asian Studies minor desirable. Please send a letter of application (including teaching and research statements), CV (including contact information for references), three letters of recommendation, and any other supporting material to David Imhoof at asianhistory@susqu.edu (electronic submissions preferred) or David Imhoof, Chair, History Department, Susquehanna University, Selinsgrove, PA 17870. Review begins on October 20, 2008. Susquehanna is a selective, national liberal arts college that prepares students for achievement, leadership and service in a diverse and interconnected world. Its 2,000 undergraduates come from 30 states and 12 countries to Susquehanna's scenic Susquehanna River Valley campus in Selinsgrove, Pa., for excellent academics, mentoring and experiential learning. The university, located 50 miles north of Harrisburg, is a three-hour drive from New York City, Philadelphia and Washington, D.C. Susquehanna University is committed to creating a more diverse community. The university encourages candidates from historically underrepresented groups to apply. Susquehanna University is an EO/AA employer.

Latin American History. The History Department of Susquehanna University seeks candidates for a full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professorship in Latin American history, national and period specialty open, to begin August 2009. The selected individual will teach upper-division courses in her/his area of specialty and survey courses in Latin American history; generous support for research available. PhD and previous teaching experience preferred, ABD considered. Please send a letter of application (including teaching and research statements), CV (including contact information for references), three letters of recommendation, and any other supporting material to David Imhoof at lahistory@susqu.edu (electronic submissions preferred) or David Imhoof, Chair, History Department, Susquehanna University, Selinsgrove, PA 17870. Review begins on October 20, 2008. Susquehanna is a selective, national liberal arts college that prepares students for achievement, leadership and service in a diverse and interconnected world. Its 2,000 undergraduates come from 30 states and 12 countries to Susquehanna's scenic Susquehanna River Valley campus in Selinsgrove, Pa., for excellent academics, mentoring and experiential learning. The university, located 50 miles north of Harrisburg, is a three-hour drive from New York City, Philadelphia and Washington, D.C. Susquehanna University is committed to creating a more diverse community. The university encourages candidates from historically underrepresented groups to apply. Susquehanna University is an EO/AA employer.